Life is beautifully out of my control,
2013

Acrylic on Canvas
H 91 x 91 cm

The titles of both artworks - 'Life is beautifully out of my control' and 'You just don't know it yet' suggest the artist acknowledging the relentless and enduring human need for control, while realising that the intricacies of life are technically still beyond our grasp. After all, we're continually subjected to universal sea changes and fluctuations. As the artist concludes: 'Life really is in many ways like an abstract painting; we all make choices along the way, without always knowing the final outcome.'
