Three-holed Block, Circa 2000

Stoneware

H 17.5 x 27 x 12.5 cm

No Marking (No seal)

An abstract stoneware block with a semi-circular base. The centre portion is curved in, forming an 'ear-shape' when viewed from the top. The top is sealed flat except for the three holes in a row at one end.

The semi-circular surface is incised with a vertical row of diagonal lines bordered by two lines. The whole block is glazed in three vertical segments - dark brown, blue and grey-brown from left to right. The 1cm thin strips around the top and bottom and the two strips on the flat top are unglazed.
