In the world of WAKOS, the egg alludes to the infancy and the beginning. It is in fact the first level of evolution. It implies potential. The fact it has a cactus in the forehead means that the character has an increased potential for self awareness. San Pedro Cactus is often used in ritual ceremonies to explore the limits of consciousness and self discovery. A WAKO.Wevo will eventually evolves into a ritual animal, and the kind of animal it evolves to (such as puma, condor or snake) will manifest its powers and role in the world. It will give him a sense of purpose.
